

Contents

	page
Seedling regeneration of celery-top pine (Phyllocladus aspleniifolius) after harvesting of rainforest in north-western Tasmania S. Jennings and M. Neyland	1
A climate analysis of the current and potential future Eucalyptus nitens and E. globulus plantation estate on Tasmanian State forest T. Wardlaw	17
Distribution, habitat characteristics and conservation management of Prasophyllum stellatum (Ben Lomond leek-orchid), a forest-dependent threatened species M. Wapstra, N. Roberts, M. Larcombe and T. Leaman	28
Eucalypt growth-ring research and tree ages at Warra 17B, southern Tasmania J. Coppelman, J. Browning, T. Mazin, S. Franklin, J. Fielding, R. McNab, R. Pittam and K. Allen	42
From presumed extinct to probably secure? The resurrection and ongoing management of Hibbertia rufa (brown guineaflower) in north-east Tasmania M. Wapstra, B. French, V. Tyquin and R. Skabo	54
The early history of plantation forestry on State-owned land in Tasmania H. Elliott	71
Planned burning in Tasmania. I. A review of current practice and supporting information J.B. Marsden-Smedley	86
Planned burning in Tasmania. II. Fire risk assessment and the development of a standardised Burn Risk Assessment Tool (BRAT) J.B. Marsden-Smedley and S. Whight	109
Planned burning in Tasmania. III. Revised guidelines for conducting planned burning J.B. Marsden-Smedley	122